Introducing The NCRF

The National Committee for Religious Freedom is uniquely positioned to proactively defend the constitutional rights of religious freedom so that all Americans can peacefully and publically exercise their religious beliefs.

The NCRF is legally permitted to promote and endorse political candidates and can also support or oppose legislation or ballot initiatives.

The NCRF defends religious freedom by identifying and supporting elected officials and candidates who are committed to upholding the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. Likewise, the NCRF will also identify and work to replace elected officials at every level who are hostile to religious freedom for all Americans.

Key Policy Sectors

The NCRF is focusing on promoting religious freedom in four primary policy sectors:

Education: defending parental choice, calling for curriculum transparency, and protecting the rights of students.

Health Care: defending the freedom of conscience for workers and religious rights and accommodations for patients.

Military: defending the religious freedoms of those who defend our nation every day.

Corporate: educating executives and equipping workers to defend their constitutional religious freedoms.

The Religious Landscape

According to Pew Research, 77 percent of the people in NCRF targeted states are people of faith.

Each state has a unique and diverse religious community that the NCRF seeks to support and educate through our efforts, in cooperation with new or existing state religious freedom committees.

In looking at various data sets, a clear picture emerges of the importance that communities and people of faith can be to the nation - should they be so mobilized.

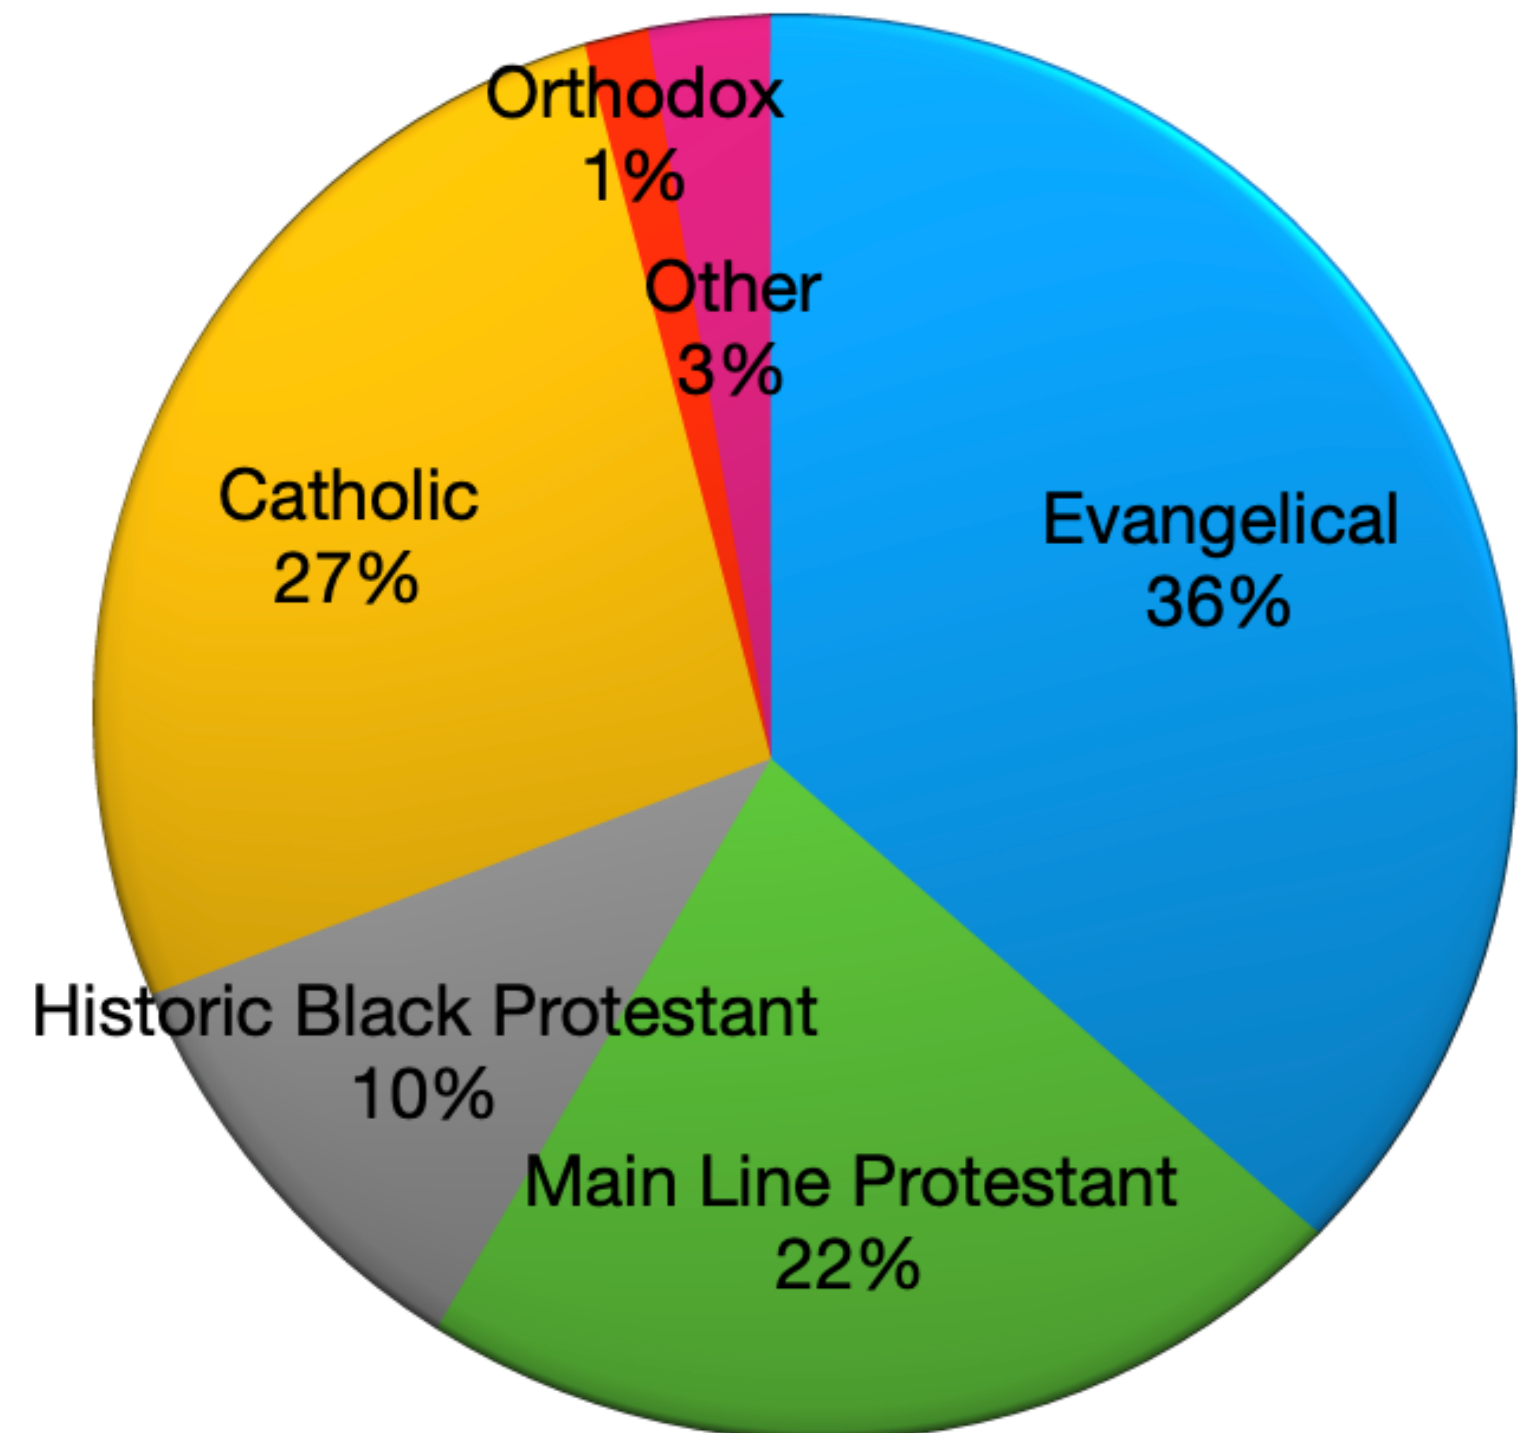

Christian Diversity Today

Our Nation has had a strong history and connection to Christian faith communities ever since the first landing cross was erected at Cape Henry in Virginia in 1607.

Today's Christian community has blossomed from a single denominational expression to hundreds of traditions. The Evangelical, Historic/Main Line Protestant, and Roman Catholic account for 96 percent of the Christian communities in the target states.

The NCRF seeks to work across religious and denominational lines to build a Committee for Religious Freedom at the state level or to support such organizations where they already exist.

Community Engagement

The Community Voices for Religious Freedom is a community and diversity initiative of the NCRF that seeks to make inroads to often marginalized or underheard ethnic communities of faith. These Voices for Religious Freedom include:

- Asian Voices for Religious Freedom
- Black Voices for Religious Freedom
- Hispanic Voices for Religious Freedom
- Middle Eastern Voices for Religious Freedom

These ethnic communities all have unique perspectives that greatly contribute to the national dialogue of religious freedom, but each of these communities also represents a broad range of religious traditions.

Federal Political Action

Support the Supporters

By recruiting members and candidates to sign the religious freedom pledge, the NCRF will identify pro-religious freedom members who deserve your support.

Educate the Indifferent

There are some members of Congress who are uneducated about the constitutional importance of the first amendment.

Target Anti-religious Freedom Seats

Identifying and campaigning against members of Congress who are hostile to religious freedom is a hallmark of the NCRF. This type of proactive religious freedom advocacy sets the NCRF apart from other religious freedom organizations.

2022 Emphasis States

8 Members of the United States Senate Key Senate States

The 2022 Senate races provide a significant opportunity for the NCRF to make a meaningful impact. Four target states are Republican-controlled, four are swing states that could go either way, and one is solidly Democratic.

74,044,628 Voting Age Adults of Faith

On average, the NCRF seeks to engage with at least 73% of the adult population of any state we are engaged in.

146 Members of the House of Representatives Congressional Seats

Identifying and supporting pro-religious freedom members and candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives will be a hallmark of the NCRF. The 2022 mid-term election has 146 available House seats in the states that the NCRF is focused on.
